

IHSA offers fall protection training when and where you need it

IHSA's Working at Heights—Fundamentals of Fall Prevention course is a robust program that covers the basic fall prevention information workers need to know to work safely at heights. Students will receive hands-on instruction and innovative safety information from experienced adult educators and subject-matter experts who come from the industries we serve. Our courses are available across Ontario throughout the year, and more dates will be added to the already long list that you see below (from January to March, 2015).

IHSA realizes that your time is valuable and your training needs can change at the drop of a hat. That's why, in addition to the scheduled courses, we offer training courses whenever and wherever you need them. If you want to schedule one of our courses for your company or in your region, just call us and we'll make it happen.

IHSA is also offering courses in 10 additional languages (see Translated Courses below). Visit ihsa.ca/training for more dates and courses.

Learn to teach IHSA's Working at Heights course

IHSA's programs set the standard for health and safety training in Ontario. To help ensure all workers have access to IHSA's high-quality training, we offer companies the opportunity to teach our Working at Heights course.

By becoming an IHSA-registered training provider, you'll not only gain access to IHSA's training materials that meet the purpose of the new Working at Heights Training Standard, but also save on the cost of sending your employees for training. IHSA-registered instructors must have proven experience related to working at heights and must successfully complete IHSA's Working at Heights Instructor Workshop and Foundations of Facilitating, Training, and Learning. To learn more, visit ihsa.ca/training_provider
