

Support IHSA's "Keep Your Promise" Awareness Campaign

Why do you work safe? That's the question IHSA asks in an advertising campaign aimed at changing the mindset of Ontarians when it comes to working safely. Answers to this question are shown in a series of ads that have been appearing on Toronto Transit Commission (TTC) vehicles and on rink boards at community arenas throughout Ontario since March.

The goal of this campaign is simply to remind people of what's at stake when health and safety rules are not followed or not taken seriously. We hope that when people see the ads during their morning commute, at a weekend hockey game, or at a community event, they will remember the importance of workplace safety.

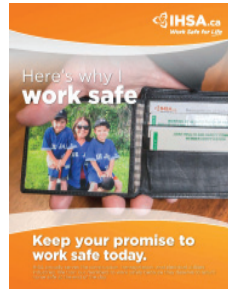

You can help IHSA get this health and safety message to the people who need it most by displaying the posters and stickers associated with this campaign at your workplace. Order your FREE copies by filling out the form below and we'll send them to you.

Everyone deserves to return home healthy and safe at the end of their workday.
